

“Many things qualify David for this prestigious award. He, quietly worked behind the scenes for years. Recently, he served on the board and before that he worked on numerous subcommittees rewriting and editing MHA manuals and the certified mason's written test.

For me, of all his outstanding work his participation in the workshop area stands out above and beyond! He helped set up the workshops and during the workshop he keeps the procedure working like a well-oiled machine. Without his presence workshops could drift off into chaos. There were several other members helping, but they worked well together because of David 's laid back demeanor.

If you ever need a tool David 's truck is parked close by with all his own tools that he has hauled from his home. Many times been a real live saver every year. But, one of David's biggest assets is his determination to clean up and organize the tear down of the workshops every year. He makes sure everything is banded up on pallets to be removed off site. He is one of a handful of people who stays to the very end and gets an okay from the staff of Wildacres for leaving a presentable area. Big time kudos on that issue alone.

Hands down on David winning this award because people like him others devote so much on MHA 's behalf. Congratulations, David! “
